

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

- - - A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Produced by the Office of Public Relations.
Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday, February 26, 1968

The Selective Service Law and GW: Arthur Burns, Dean of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, has announced that of the 1150 students enrolled in Masters' and Doctoral programs in the School of Arts and Sciences, only 105 are highly vulnerable to the draft. To date, the school has received nearly 600 applications for the Fall '68 term, of which only a limited number are draft risks, according to Dean Burns.

"At the most, we may lose 100 students from the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences," the Dean said.

Joseph L. Metivier, Assistant Dean of Columbian College, has been awarded L'Ordre des Palmes Academiques from the French government in appreciation for years of devotion to the French nation. The order is awarded to foreigners, particularly those involved in the dissemination of French culture, an area in which he has worked for several years. Dean Metivier has arranged the National High School French Contest for high school students, as well as encouraged overseas study programs. He has worked closely with the American College in Paris in completing the agreement for the Sophomore Year Abroad, a program which will begin in September.

In a recent publication, Doctorate Recipients from United States Universities, 1958-1966, issued by the National Science Foundation, GW was listed among the "one hundred leading baccalaureate source institutions of doctorate recipients."

Derek Curtis Bok, M.A. in economics from GW, '58, has been appointed Dean of the Harvard Law School. An authority in labor law, Professor Bok has served as an arbitrator in several labor disputes as well as a consultant to many Federal agencies.

A Consortium committee, headed by Dean Arthur Burns, will soon consider the results of a study by a New York University Research Director that may lead to the establishment of a Center for International Education in Washington. The intent of the committee, says Burns, is to come up with a proposal for a Center that would be funded under the International Education Act of 1966. The Center would be operated jointly by the five Consortium universities and would consolidate international education programs now run individually on local college campuses.

Final Figures from Curt Bacon, Chairman of the GW UGF Campaign, show a total of $32,253, an increase of $8,041 over last year's amount. The total two years ago, in 1965-66, was $14,777.

-more-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

- - A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Produced by the Office of Public Relations. *Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday, March 4, 1968

Dr. John Parks, President of the Association of American Medical Colleges and Dean of the GW Medical Center, and Dr. Milford O. Rouse, President of the American Medical Association, will hold a news conference on Tuesday, March 5 at 11:00 a.m. in the Pennsylvania Suite at the Mayflower Hotel. The topic: "Increasing The Supply of Physicians."

Following on the heels of last summer's successful High School Honors Program for Washington youth, a second program, expanded to a national level, will be conducted at GW from June 17 to July 24.

This year's program will select 120 high school juniors from across the country and will offer a combination of opportunities not usually available in this type of program--university credit, dormitory life, participation in regular college classes with college students, scholarships, and a diversified recreational and cultural program in the capital city. Honors Program students will take a normal summer load of two courses and will live in Thurston Hall under the supervision of resident counselors. Director of the program is Miss Jean Gladding, Division of University Students.

A newly-formed Washington chapter of ARCS (Achievement Rewards for College Scientists), a group which raises funds for scholarships for outstanding science students, has selected George Washington and Johns Hopkins to receive its funds. Mrs. Edward Reinecke, wife of the California Congressman and member of the Los Angeles chapter of the group, has spearheaded the organization of the Washington chapter.

The scholarship funds, for recipients selected by the universities, will be administered through the Office of Student Financial Aid.

A committee studying current social and psychological attitudes of American students for the Edward W. Hazen Foundation of New Haven, Conn., has concluded that higher education has ignored the development of students' personalities, and consequently has managed to quash curiosity, excitement, and motivation fairly early in the students' college experience.

Among the committee's recommendations are: designation of the freshman year as a period of orientation rather than the first year of academic instruction; individual tutorials and seminars to replace formal lecture arrangements; reduction of competition, with grades optional; and the development of a new type of undergraduate faculty whose interests are "in the facilitation of the learning experiences of students" instead of "professional research they can report in the academic journals..." The Chronical of Higher Education, Feb. 26.

-more-

Stress Analysis of A Strapless Evening Gown is the title of a book by Dr. Robert A. Baker, Senior Staff Scientist for HumRRO.

A collection of humorous prose and poetry by Dr. Baker and his associates, the book was recently published by Prentice-Hall in paperback form.

NEW PUBLICATIONS WORTH READING

EDUCATION, INTERACTION, AND SOCIAL CHANGE, by Harold L. Hodgkinson, Prentice-Hall, Inc., Englewood Cliffs, N.J. 07632, 228 pp., summarizes theories of sociology and social psychology as they bear on current educational problems. Well-written chapters on role playing, bureaucratic structures, functionalism, and student values should interest college administrators.

THE UNIVERSITY STUDENT: A Study of Student Behavior and Values, by Charles Boltol and Kenneth Kammeyer, College and University Press Services, 263 Chapel St., New Haven, Conn. 06513, 286 pp., ($6.00) dissects behavior of the majority of college students, those who do not make headlines.

SELECTED CALENDAR EVENTS FOR THE WEEK

6 Wednesday

DEPARTMENT OF RELIGION COLLOQUIUM - Speaker: Dewey D. Wallace, Associate Professor of Religion. Respondent: Jon Quitsland, Assistant Professor of English. Topic: "Milton's Anti-Trinitarianism Based on Paradise Lost." Woodhull House, 7:30 p.m.

7 Thursday

GWU WOMEN'S PHYSICAL EDUCATION LECTURE - Speaker: Professor Liselott Diem of Deutsche Sporthochschule, Cologne, Germany. Topic: "Elementary Physical Education, Grades 1 to 4." Lisner Aud., 7:00 p.m.

PURCHASING MANAGEMENT INSTITUTE - Purchasing Agents Association of Washington, D.C. Faculty Conference Room, 6th Floor, University Library, 7:45 p.m.

8 Friday

AATSEEL PANEL DISCUSSION - Topic: "Climate of Soviet Literature Today." Faculty Conference Room, 6th Floor, University Library, 8:00 p.m.

9 Saturday

ANDRES SEGOVIA, GUITARIST - Washington Performing Arts Society, Lisner Aud., 8:00 p.m.

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

- - A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Produced by the Office of Public Relations. Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday, March 11, 1968

A $1,295,595 grant, one of the grants issued to six of the country's leading medical schools from the Public Health Service, will assist in the construction of the Paul Himmelfarb Library in the GWU Medical Center. Groundbreaking for the Library--the first building in the proposed Medical Center--is scheduled for September.

Among the features in the Library, occupying 30,000 square feet of usable space, are: a large audio-visual section, micro-form readers and printers, wiring for computer usage, private study rooms, open stacks and group study facilities for four to six students. The carpeted library will accommodate more than 80,000 volumes and 1,500 periodicals. Dr. Seymour Alpert, chairman of the Library Committee, Rupert Woodward, director of Libraries, Miss Isabella Young, medical librarian, and members of the Library Committee formulated plans for the Library.

Clinton A. Neyman, Jr., Assistant Research Professor of Education, has been appointed Director of the Education Research Project. He succeeds Dr. John T. Dailey, who has joined the Federal Aviation Administration as special assistant for psychology in the office of the Air Surgeon. Mr. Neyman has been the Assistant Director of the Project since its beginning in July 1964.

The annual Parents' Weekend will be March 15, 16, and 17. Events during the weekend include a Parents' Assembly with speeches by Senator Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, Dr. Elmer Louis Kayser and Warren Gould; faculty lectures by Dr. Thelma Lavine, Dr. Stefan Schiff and Dr. Hugh LeBlanc; a Faculty Coffee; and the Parents' Reception.

Leonard B. Puliot, Associate Professorial Lecturer in the Graduate School of Business and Public Administration, has been appointed Director of Personnel at the Smithsonian Institution.

A recent report on Washington's $5.5 million compensation program financed under Title I of the Federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act, prepared by John T. Dailey and C.A. Neyman of the Education Research Project, shows that federally financed programs did not raise the reading level of Washington's students in poverty area schools last year, but projects aimed at cutting the dropout rate showed "definite and documentable" success.

Included in the report was a priority list, indicating which Title I programs should be expanded or revamped. Top priority was given to such programs as STAY night school for dropouts and the Pupil Personnel Service teams

-more-

NEW PUBLICATIONS WORTH READING

Princeton economics professor Joseph Mooney concludes that graduate schools should spend more time with enrolled graduate students and less with prospects, Journal of Human Resources, winter. A study of 3,542 Woodrow Wilson fellows of 1958-60 shows that little over one-third had received their Ph.D.'s by mid-1966.

SELECTED CALENDAR EVENTS FOR THE WEEK

13 Wednesday

INTERFAITH FORUM - Speaker: Reverend David Eaton, Director, Opportunities Industrialization Center. Topic: "The Dilemma of the Negro Ghetto." Woodhull House, 12:00 noon.

GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION - Governing Board Dinner Meeting. Alumni Lounge, Bacon Hall, 5:00 p.m.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETING - Faculty Conference Room, 6th Floor, University Library, 9:00 p.m.

14 Thursday

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS - "The Three Cuckolds." Special preview for area high school students. Lisner Aud., 8:30 p.m. ALSO - Friday and Saturday, 8:30 p.m.

15 Friday

PARENTS' WEEKEND - Registration: Alumni Lounge, Bacon Hall, 2:00-7:00 p.m.

LAW ALUMNI ASSOCIATION - Annual Mid-Winter Meeting of Executive Committee. National Lawyers Club, 10:00 a.m.

16 Saturday

PARENTS' WEEKEND

Faculty Coffee, Lower Lounge, Lisner Aud., 10:00 a.m.

Parents' Assembly - Speaker: U.S. Senator Thurston Morton of Kentucky, Lisner Aud., 11:00 a.m.

Afternoon Program - "The Past and Future of the University." Speakers: University Historian Elmer Louis Kayser and Vice President for Resources Warren Gould. Lisner Aud., 2:00-3:30 p.m.

Model Lectures - Dr. Levine, Dr. Schiff and Dr. LeBlanc, Hall of Government.

Parents' Reception, Men's Gymnasium, 4:30-6:00 p.m.

17 Sunday

PARENTS' WEEKEND

Tours of Washington - 1:00-3:00 p.m.

NATIONAL BALLET - Lisner Aud., 3:00 and 8:30 p.m.

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

- - A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Produced by the Office of Public Relations, Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday, March 18, 1968

A new Emergency Care Department for GW's Hospital, relocated ambulatory services for the University Clinic, and expanded Student Health Services are the direct benefits of the current renovation of the 13-story Keystone Building. The former apartment house at the corner of Pennsylvania Avenue and 22nd St., N.W., is undergoing major internal architectural treatment estimated to cost about $1.5 million, in order to become the GW University Clinic.

The renovation of the Keystone will bring about the unique integration of 65 full-time physicians' offices; secretarial areas; patient examining rooms; special treatment and procedure rooms; teaching and conference areas; and administrative areas.

A student-run journal of international politics, a joint venture among graduate students in Washington's five universities, is being prepared for distribution later this month. The tri-yearly journal will contain articles and book reviews by graduate students as well as notes on current research projects and Ph.D. dissertations.

Dr. Cecil B. Jacobson, Instructor in Obstetrics and Gynecology and Macy Fellow, recently testified that there is evidence that LSD can "significantly increase the chance of cancer." Dr. Jacobson told a House hearing that the hallucinogenic drug is strongly implicated by present genetic studies as a possible cause of mutations of future generations and premature aging of cells, a characteristic of cancer.

Is slang a product of a particular generation or culture? "No," says GW sociologist Joseph Tropea, who claims that teen-age slang has been part of the American life for over 25 years. "Hippie language," says Professor Tropea, "is somewhat different from the slang of the past in that even the brightest college students are speaking a lot of it." Professor Tropea feels that the English language will weather current slang trends.

Two Medical professors, pathologist John Chandler Smith and dermatologist Robert S. Higdon won the "Golden Apple Awards" presented at the conclusion of Medical School Follies, March 9. The "apples" represent annual tributes to two instructors, one each from the basic sciences and clinical sciences. Dr. Smith, who is completing his first year on the GW faculty, was cited as the basic scientist who contributed the most to students in their first and second years of medical school, while Dr. Higdon was honored as the clinical scientist contributing most to students in their third and fourth years.

-more-

NEW PUBLICATIONS WORTH READING

WHERE COLLEGES FAIL: A Study Of The Student As A Person, by Nevitt Sanford, Jossey-Bass, Inc., San Francisco, Calif. 94111, 229 pp., ($7.50) pleas for the restoration of the student "to his rightful place at the center of the college's activities." With the assertion that the individual development is the primary aim of education, Sanford presents a theory of student personality growth applying it to the college's educational procedures and opportunities after college.

SELECTED CALENDAR EVENTS FOR THE WEEK

20 Wednesday

ELTON LECTURE IN PHILOSOPHY - Speaker: Dr. Corliss Lamont, former Professor of Philosophy at Columbia, Cornell, Harvard and the New School for Social Research. Room 100, Corcoran Hall, 8:00 p.m.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETING - Faculty Conference Room, 6th Floor, Library, 9:00 p.m.

21 Thursday

BOARD OF TRUSTEES MEETING - Board of Trustees Room, Luther Rice Hall, 1:00 p.m.

WASHINGTON NATIONAL SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA - Brian Sullivan, Tenor, Lisner Aud., 2:00 p.m.

INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS SEMINAR - Speaker: Bert Seidman, Director, Department of Social Security, AFL-CIO. Topic: "Unionism in Western Europe and Its Impact on the Multi-national Firm," Faculty Conference Room, 6th Floor, Library, 6:10 p.m.

GWU CONCERT SERIES - University Baroque Ensemble, Lisner Aud., 8:30 p.m.

22 Friday

GWU PROGRAM FOR POLICY STUDIES - Speaker: George Kozmetsky, Dean, College of Business Administration, University of Texas. Topic: "Systems Concepts and Management Curricula," Faculty Conference Room, 6th Floor, Library, 10:00 a.m.

INTERNATIONAL NIGHT - Annual International Students talent review, Lisner Aud., 8:30 p.m.

23 Saturday

WILLIAM MASSELOS, PIANIST - Washington Performing Arts Society, Piano Series, Lisner Aud., 4:00 p.m.

CARLOS MONTOYA, GUITARIST, Washington Performing Arts Society, Lisner Aud., 8:30 p.m.

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

- - A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Produced by the Office of Public Relations. Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday, March 25, 1968

The University Senate adopted, at a special meeting on March 20, a resolution recommending a revised academic calendar in all schools in the University except the Schools of Medicine and Law, which will establish a three-week examination and independent study period at the end of each semester. The Student Council has passed a modified version of this resolution.

The Senate also recommended the replacement of the Student Life Committee with a Joint Senate-Student Council Committee, subject to ratification by President Elliott and the Student Council.

Dr. Edward H. Sehrt, Professor Emeritus of German, was honored recently on his 80th birthday by the publication of a Festschrift volume of 18 scholarly papers, a bibliography, and biographical sketches written by his former students and professional colleagues. Contributions were sent from as far as California, London, and Leipzig, behind the Iron Curtain. The volume, entitled Germanic Studies in Honor of Edward Henry Sehrt, was edited by GW German professors James C. King and Wolfram K. Legner, and is available from the University of Miami Press, Coral Gables, Florida.

A new program, Advanced Studies in Water Resources Law, has been established at the National Law Center, in cooperation with the Army Corps of Engineers. The program is geared to interest lawyers in pursuing a career in the corps of Engineers in planning, development and management of water and related resources.

The Emergence of Washington as the National Capital is the title of the 1968 Summer Institute in American Studies, sponsored by GW and the Smithsonian Institution from July 25 to Aug. 30. A unique experiment in interdisciplinary study of the Washington metropolitan area, the institute will include units of study in topography, environment, transportation, Washington as a center of development of science and technology, social and political organizations, and the fine arts and architecture.

Frederick Gutheim, a consultant on urban affairs, Constance McLaughlin Green, a Pulitzer Prize-winning historian, and Wilcomb E. Washburn, the chairman of American Studies at the Smithsonian, will coordinate panel discussions, orientation in material culture, field study, individual student research projects and lectures by visiting scholars.

Clarence C. Mondale, Professor of American Literature, is Director of the Summer Institute.

Leo M. Pellerzi, AA'47, LLB'49, LLM'50, has been appointed Assistant Attorney General for Administration. Mr. Pellerzi, now General Counsel of the U.S. Civil Service Commission, was appointed, with approval by the President, by Attorney General Ramsey Clark.

NEW PUBLICATIONS WORTH READING

THE COLLEGE STUDENT AND HIS CULTURE: AN ANALYSIS, edited by Kaoru Yamamoto, Boston, Houghton Mifflin Co., $7.50. The anthology presents some of today's most sophisticated analyses of college students by authors who argue that educators should try to understand the impact of profound social changes on the young. The editor, however, has carefully avoided the more lachrymose apologies for youth.

SELECTED CALENDAR EVENTS FOR THE WEEK

25 Monday

STATE AND LOCAL FINANCES PROJECT - Review and Evaluation of the 5-5-5 Project. Faculty Conference Room, 6th Floor, Library, 9:30 a.m.-5:00 p.m., through March 26.

27 Wednesday

INTERFAITH FORUM - Speaker: Dr. R.B. Castell, Director of Health Services. Topic: "Ethics in Medicine," Woodhull House, 12:00 noon.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETING - Faculty Conference Room, 6th Floor, Library, 9:00 p.m.

28 Thursday

GRADUATE STUDENT - FACULTY COFFEE - Speaker: Dr. John Boswell, Associate Professor of Education. Topic: "New Direction for Teacher Education?" Alumni Lounge, Bacon Hall, 2:00 p.m.

READINGS FROM MODERN GERMAN LITERATURE - By six leading actors and actresses from the Vienna Burgtheater. Sponsored by the Department of Germanic Languages and Literatures, Department of Interior Auditorium, 18th and C Sts., N.W., 8:00 p.m.

29 Friday

SPRING CONCERT GWU DANCE PRODUCTION GROUPS - (Through March 30), Lisner Aud., 8:30 p.m.

30 Saturday

10th ANNUAL HIGH SCHOOL FORENSICS TOURNAMENT, Lisner Aud., 9:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m.

REGIONS 1-2 JOINT CONFERENCE OF SIGMA DELTA CHI, national journalistic society. Topics: 11:00 a.m., "Mass Media and Civil Disorders"; 2:00 p.m., "Free Press-Fair Trial: The Implications of the Reardon Report." Hall of Government, Rooms 101-101A.

31 Sunday

ALVIN AILEY DANCE COMPANY - Washington Performing Arts Society, Lisner Aud., 3:00 p.m.

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

--- - A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Produced by the Office of Public Relations. Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday, April 1, 1968

A report recently published as a book by the Brookings Institution places GW fourth, behind Harvard, Yale and Columbia in a table of "graduate schools attended by the largest percentage of federal political executives." Oxford ranks fifth, while Georgetown is listed as eighth in the standings.

Entitled Men Who Govern, the biographical profile of political executives describes the roles, personalities, and career characteristics of individuals selected by five Presidents, from Franklin D. Roosevelt to Lyndon B. Johnson, by examining the qualifications and tenure of these appointees as shown by statistical analysis of an extensive collection of data.

The 10th Annual Forensics Tournament for high school students, sponsored by the GW Speech and Drama Department, was held at Lisner Auditorium on Saturday. Sixty-five high schools from Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia were represented, with more than 60 faculty members and 320 students from the schools. Four rounds of debate on the topic: "Resolved That Congress Should Establish Uniform Standards to Control Criminal Investigative Procedures" were held during the morning session, with the final debates during the afternoon. Students also participated in persuasive and extemporaneous speaking contests.

Miss Margaret Davis, Associate Director of Public Relations and Editor of GW: The University Magazine, left her position at the University on March 29 to join the Economic Development Administration in the U. S. Commerce Department as Public Information Specialist.

Miss Davis, AB'37, MA'41, had been a member of the GW Public Relations staff for 22 years.

A workshop on physical education and recreation for the mentally retarded will be held at GW on April 5 from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. in the Men's Gymnasium. The workshop is sponsored by the university's Department of Physical Education in cooperation with its department of Special Education and other agencies in the District of Columbia. Among its purposes are to increase awareness of the problem of mental retardation, to introduce physical education and recreation content into teacher education programs for the mentally retarded, to encourage participants to use ideas from the workshop in initiating new programs or improving existing programs, and to promote cooperation of local agencies and groups in developing programs for the mentally retarded.

Included in the program for the event are talks by Dr. Jerry Botwin, Chairman of GW's Special Education Department; Dr. Frank J. Hayden, Director of The Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., Foundation; Guy Luntch, Superintendent of the District Training School; and Mrs. Eunice Kennedy Shriver, Executive Vice-President of The Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., Foundation

A TV special, "Washington, D.C. - The Legal Classroom," will be rebroadcast in color on Friday, April 5, at 1:00 a.m. on WRC-TV. The show was originally telecast yesterday morning at 10:30. The program, produced by the GW Office of Public Relations, features the experiences of GW law students, who are contributing services in the "Washington community."

SELECTED CALENDAR EVENTS OF THE WEEK

1 Monday

DEPARTMENT OF RELIGION COLLOQUIUM - Speaker: Robert G. Jones, Professor of Religion. Topic: "The Passover Plot," by H. J. Shonfield," Woodhull House, 7:30 p.m.

VIENNA BURGTHEATRE - Washington Performing Arts Society, Lisner Aud., 8:30 p.m.

2 Tuesday

INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS SEMINAR - Panel discussion, topic: "East-West Trade." Room 100, Corcoran Hall, 8:00 p.m.

JOSE GRECO DANCE COMPANY - Washington Performing Arts Society, Lisner Aud., 8:30 p.m.

3 Wednesday

HOSPITAL WOMEN'S BOARD - Main Conference Room, University Hospital, 11:00 a.m.

INTERFAITH FORUM - Speaker: Brad Mintern, Chesapeake Foundation. Topic: "Ethics in Business," Woodhull House, 12:00 noon.

GEOLOGY CLUB LECTURE - Speaker: Dr. Gilbert Kelling, Senior Post-Doctoral Associate, Smithsonian Institution. Topic: "Turbidites, Contourites, and Flysh Deposits," Room 100, Bell Hall, 8:00 p.m.

STATISTICS DEPARTMENT LECTURE - Speaker: I. J. Good, Professor of Statistics, V.P.I. Topic: "Some Statistical Methods in Machine Intelligence Research," Room 100, Corcoran Hall, 8:15 p.m.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETING - Faculty Conference Room, 6th Floor, Library, 9:00 p.m.

4 Thursday

ATHLETIC AND RECREATION FEDERATION OF COLLEGE WOMEN REGIONAL CONFERENCE. GW host institution (through April 6).

WORLD PREMIERE OF THE KINETIC ART - First U. S. Showing of a series of short films from eight countries, Lisner Aud., 8:15 p.m.

5 Friday

GW WORKSHOP ON PHYSICAL EDUCATION AND RECREATION FOR THE MENTALLY RETARDED - Men's Gymnasium, 9:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

UNIVERSITY SENATE MEETING - Faculty Conference Room, 6th Floor, Library, 2:10 p.m.

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

- - A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Produced by the Office of Public Relations. Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday, April 8, 1968

Delta Sigma Rho-Tau Kappa Alpha, the national honorary forensics fraternity, is holding its National Conference at GW from April 7-10. This is the first time that the conference has been held in the East.

GW Speech Professor and Forensics Director, G.F. Henigan, is Director of the conference. He expects 500 delegates from 99 collegiate chapters in 39 states and the District of Columbia to participate in the event which will include debates, contests in persuasive and extempore speaking, and a National Student Congress. The Congress, which involves 72 students, will meet during the week at the Willard Hotel, to deal with the topic: "What Should Be The U.S. Policy Toward South Vietnam."

The conference banquet, to be held Tuesday evening, will feature the presentation of the Speaker of the Year Award, a Special Award for Distinguished Speaking over a lifetime, and Distinguished Alumni Awards to fraternity members.

The Ford Foundation has awarded GW a $97,000 grant for a study and report of the country's prison system. The two-and-one-half-year study will be directed under the auspices of the University's Institute of Law, Psychiatry and Criminology.

Professor L. James Harris, Director of The Patent, Trademark, and Copyright Research Institute at GW, has been awarded the Jefferson Medal by the New Jersey Patent Law Association. The award is given once each year to the individual, who in the opinion of the Medal Committee and the Board of Managers of the Association, has made important contributions in the field of patents, trademarks, and copyrights. Former Supreme Court Justice Thomas C. Clark received the award last year.

Dr. Robert Adler, inventor in the field of electronic products, devices and systems used in aircraft communication, radar, TV and FM broadcasting, has been designated by the GW Patent, Trademark, and Copyright Research Institute to receive its 1967 Inventor-of-the-Year Award.

The Award honors a journeyman or professional inventor who has made a significant patented invention or inventions. Dr. Adler's most significant recent contribution has been his co-invention of a stereo FM system which permits the public to enjoy FM broadcasts in full FM stereophonic sound. This is due to his phasitron modulator tube and system, which is now used by more than 500 FM stereo stations, and is incorporated in most radio-phonograph combinations and FM tuners.

The Dean and Faculty of The National Law Center will host an Open House to present the recently completed Law Library and renovated Stockton Hall on April 9, 5:00 p.m. Administrative and academic officers and guests are welcomed.

NEW PUBLICATIONS WORTH READING

THE STUDENT IN HIGHER EDUCATION: Prepared by a committee chaired by Joseph F. Kauffman (New Haven, Conn., Hazen Foundation). An effort "to gain perspective on the various social and psychological influences which shape student attitudes, interests, and activities."

THE PROFESSIONAL SCHOOL AND WORLD AFFAIRS: Edited by T. Keith Glennan and others (Albuquerque, N.M., University of New Mexico Press). A look by a committee of Education and World Affairs at the need for international education in the professional schools of American universities.

SELECTED CALENDAR EVENTS FOR THE WEEK

8 Monday

ENGINEERING ALUMNI BOARD MEETING - Alumni Lounge, Bacon Hall, 8:00 p.m.

GERALD MOORE, PIANIST AND RACONTEUR - Lecture recital, sponsored by the Southwest Community Council, Inc., Lisner Aud., 8:30 p.m.

DEPARTMENT OF CHEMISTRY COLLOQUIUM - Topic: "Symmetry in Chemistry."
Speaker: C. A. Coulson, Professor of Mathematics, Oxford University. Room 100, Corcoran Hall, 8:15 p.m.

9 Tuesday

NATIONAL FORENSICS TOURNAMENT - Awards Banquet - Awards to Speaker of the Year and Student of the Year. Grand Ballroom Willard Hotel, 7:00 p.m.

OPEN HOUSE - LAW LIBRARY AND STOCKTON HALL - 5:00-8:00 p.m.

14 Sunday

EASTER SUNDAY

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

- - A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Produced by the Office of Public Relations, Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday, April 22, 1968

A "thank you" from William P. Smith, Vice President for Student Affairs, has been voiced to all who helped provide security and protective services for the campus during the recent Washington disturbances.

According to Mr. Smith, Campus Security Guards escorted students to meals after the curfew was invoked. The Student Health Service, manned by Dr. Castell, remained open to provide emergency medical care. All recreation facilities in open residence halls were also kept open throughout the weekend for students on the campus.

The Vice President said that a general review of plans in the event of future curfews, is being conducted.

The April 19 issue of Time magazine carries a full-page advertisement on George Washington University. In January, 1967, Time announced that it would run approximately 50 free ads a year from colleges and universities, provided "that the messages demonstrated the imagination and scope that would appeal to Time's readers." The estimated cost of an ad in one regional addition is $6000. GW's ad appears in the issue circulated in the Baltimore-Washington area, and will also be run in one other major circulation area in the East. The ad was prepared by the Office of Public Relations.

Eugene R. Magruder, Dean of the College of General Studies, has been presented a plaque by the Washington Chapter of the American Society for Training and Development, a national professional organization whose general goal is the advancement of education, training, and employee development in government, business and industry. The plaque is a token for Dean Magruder's continued interest in, and support of, the organization.

Dr. James J. Feffer, Washington physician and member of the University medical faculty, has been appointed Associate Dean for Clinical Affairs of the Medical Center, effective July 1.

A clinical professor and chairman of the Section of Pulmonary Disease at GW, Dr. Feffer has been in private practice in Washington for more than 25 years. His new medical responsibilities will include the Hospital and University Clinic.

GW drama student Mary Ann Chinn "stars" in the April issue of American Education, a national publication of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare-Office of Education. "Smile, Mary Ann" features Miss Chinn as a student whose education has been made possible by several types of financial aid, including the Work Study Program, the National Defense Student Loan Program and a University scholarship.

An honor student, the actress played "Maria" in the American Opera Company's "West Side Story," and hopes to enter summer stock when she graduates from GW in June.

SELECTED CALENDAR EVENTS FOR THE WEEK

23 Tuesday

COLONIALS 10th ANNUAL SPRING SPORTS DINNER - Speaker: Jesse Owens, former Olympic Trackstar. Touchdown Club, 2000 L St., N.W., 6:30 p.m.

INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS SEMINAR - Speaker: Dr. Herbert Glazier, Professor of International Economics, Sophia University, Tokyo, Japan. Topic: "Doing Business in Japan." Room 100, Corcoran Hall, 8:00 p.m.

GW UNIVERSITY CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA SPRING CONCERT - Lisner Aud., 8:30 p.m.

RUSSIAN CLUB EASTER PARTY - Authentic Russian food and entertainment, Woodhull House, 8:30 p.m.

24 Wednesday

INTERFAITH FORUM - Speaker: Lawrence Leite, Professor of Art. Topic: "Art and Religious Symbolism," Woodhull House, 12:00 Noon.

STATISTICS DEPARTMENT LECTURE - Speaker: Dr. George Weiss of the Division of Computer Research and Technology, N.I.H. Topic: "Theories of Traffic Flow." Room 100, Corcoran Hall, 8:15 p.m.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETING - Faculty Conference Room, 6th Floor, Library, 9:00 p.m.

25 Thursday

INVENTOR-OF-THE-YEAR-AWARD RECEPTION - Shoreham Hotel, Heritage Room, 4:00-6:00 p.m.

27 Saturday

SIGMA CHI DERBY DAY - Recreation Field, 16th and Kennedy Sts., NW 1:00 - 4:00 p.m.

LOS INDIOS TABAJARA - Lisner Auditorium, 8:30 p.m.

28 Sunday

ALPHA KAPPA PSI INITIATION- 6th Floor, University Library, 1:00 p.m.

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

- - A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Prepared by the Office of Public Relations. Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday April 29, 1968

The George Washington University American Assembly will hold a four-day conference at Airlie, May 2-5. The Assembly seeks to focus the thinking of a cross-section of Americans, including representatives from education, business, labor and government on a question of current interest which the sponsors feel needs close attention. The theme for this year's program is "The United States and Eastern Europe."

Featured speakers for the program are: the Hon. Clement J. Zablocki, U.S. Representative; John R. Thomas, Research Analysis Corporation; Richard F. Starr, The National War College; William E. Griffith, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Thomas J. Dunnigan, U.S. Department of State; and the Hon. Albert Gore, U.S. Senator.

Topics to be discussed by some 70 invited participants include: "What general objectives should the U.S. seek with respect to Eastern Europe;" "What should American policy be toward relationships between the Common Market and Comecon;" and "What are the proper roles of individuals, community groups, universities and other private organizations in our activities in Eastern Europe."

An "Institute of Contemporary History," titled "A Perspective on Our Time," will be held on May 4, from 1:00 to 5:45 p.m. in the Auditorium of the Smithsonian's Museum of Natural History. The Institute is open to the public, without charge.

The Institute, sponsored by GW, will examine such questions as: "should historians of today record and interpret events of their time" the ground rules for research and publication, the ethical boundaries of public disclosure, and the use of such other disciplines as sociology and psychology.

Speakers include Walter Laqueur, Director of the Institute of Contemporary History, London, England, and Professor of the History of Ideas at Brandeis University; Felix Gilbert, Professor of History at the Institute for Advanced Study, Princeton, N.J.; William L. Langer, Professor Emeritus of History, Harvard University; Jerome Frank, Professor of Psychiatry, Johns Hopkins School of Medicine; and Jacques Barzun, Professor of History, Columbia University.

Moderators for the event, which will feature one discussion and two symposiums, are Douglass Cater, Journalist and Author; The Hon. George McGovern, U.S. Senator from South Dakota; and The Hon. David L. Bazelon, Chief Judge, U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

A "Black Arts and Entertainment Festival" at GW May 4 and 5 is a city-wide project sponsored by the GW Black Students' Union. Several thousand young people from the District will be bussed to the campus for the event.

Displays of architectural drawings and models, photography, literary works, fine arts and fashions will be set up in the University Yard. Local entertainers will participate. An art exhibit will open at noon Saturday in the University Gallery.

The Festival is intended to involve GW with the inner-city community in an effort to create a greater awareness of black peoples' contributions to, and achievements in, American culture. The project was coordinated through the Youth Unit of the DC Government.

SELECTED CALENDAR EVENTS FOR THE WEEK

29 Monday

DIABETIC DETECTION DRIVE - through May 5. Test packets available at Student Health Center, 2018 G St.

1 Wednesday

INTERFAITH FORUM - Speaker: Robert N. Ganz, Associate Professor of English.
Topic: "Religion in Literature." Woodhull House, 12:00 Noon.

GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION-DEPARTMENT OF ART LECTURE - Speaker: Alfonso De Francis, Superintendent of Antiquities, Campanio, Italy, Pompeii, Capri, Herculaneum, Naples Museum. Topic: "Excavation at Locri." Room 100, Corcoran Hall, 8:30 p.m.

GWU ORCHESTRA-Hugh Wolff, piano soloist - Mozart Piano Concerto. Winner of Washington Music Teachers Association Concert. Lisner Aud., 8:30 p.m.

LAW DAY USA - Discussion on "Problems of the Ghetto Consumer and the Role of the Lawyer." Panelists: Leslie B. Dix, General Counsel for the Special Assistant for Consumer Affairs to the President; Paul Pascal, Defendants Lawyer in a number of consumer fraud cases; Robert Nader, Attorney at Law; Robert Burt, Legislative Assistant to Senator Joseph Tyding. National Law Center, 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

DEPARTMENT OF RELIGION COLLOQUIUM - Speakers: Reverend Armand LaVaute; Reverend Walter Scarie. Respondents: Harry Yeide, Associate Professor of Religion; Sonya Quitslund, Visiting Assistant Professor of Religion. Topic: "Pastoral Strains in Church Renewal." Alumni Lounge, Bacon Hall, 7:30 p.m.

2 Thursday

15th ANNUAL INSTITUTE ON GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS - Co-sponsored by GWU and the Federal Bar Association, through May 3. Hotel American, 9:00 a.m. - 4:30 p.m.

SPRING WEEKEND - The Lettermen Concert, Student Council Awards Announcements, Lisner Aud., 8:00 p.m.

31st ANNUAL KANE-KING OBSTETRICAL LECTURE - Speaker: Dr. Allan C. Barnes, Professor and Chairman, Department of Gynecology and Obstetrics, Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine. Topic: "The History of the Obstetrical Forceps." Hall A, GW School of Medicine, 5:00 p.m.

3 Friday

SPRING WEEKEND - Paint-in, University Center Fence, 1:30 p.m. College Bowl, Terrace behind University Library, 3:00 p.m. Outdoor buffet, picnic, behind Library, 5:00 p.m. Outdoor movies of the 30s, behind Library, 8:30 p.m. Block Dance, 21st St., between G and H Sts., NW, 10:00 p.m. Colonial Cruise-Saturday.

4 Saturday

INSTITUTE OF CONTEMPORARY HISTORY - Auditorium of Smithsonian's Museum of Natural History, 1:00 - 5:45 p.m.

NEGRO ARTISTS IN WASHINGTON - GWU Gallery, through May 28.

BLACK ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT FESTIVAL - Behind Library and Lisner Terrace. 11:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. (Sunday also).

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

- - A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Produced by the Office of Public Relations. Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday, May 6, 1968

There have been a few rumors that classes or examinations may be curtailed due to the Poor Peoples' March on Washington. C. H. Walther, Assistant to the Vice President for Academic Affairs says these are without foundation. The University plans to carry on all regular activities as scheduled. If some contingency should appear it will be dealt with, according to plans, when it occurs.

GW's School of Public and International Affairs and the United States Information Agency have established a Foreign Affairs Intern Program for the purpose of training members of the minority communities to qualify for Foreign Service officer careers. The program is funded by a Ford Foundation grant to the University, totaling $145,530. These funds will cover all academic costs and expenses for cultural activities. In addition, each intern will receive a stipend from the USIA to cover living costs.

The program is designed to accommodate 10 new interns per year. They will receive approximately twenty hours' on-the-job training per week for a period of two years. This training is provided to enhance the students value to the Foreign Service and to increase their motivation for career work in this field. Concurrently, the interns will pursue an appropriate and directly related course of graduate studies under the guidance of GW and USIA.

A "Teach-In," sponsored by the Poor Peoples' Campaign Support group at GW will be held Tuesday, May 7 at 7:30 p.m. in Room 1 of the Hall of Government. Speakers for the event include: Leonard Zeitz, Assistant Professorial Lecturer in Sociology; Clarence Mondale, Associate Professor of American Literature; Richard Stephens, Professor of Sociology; Patrick Gallagher, Associate Professor of Anthropology; Martin Petersilia, graduate student in history; and Hugh LeBlanc, Professor of Political Science; William Long, Assistant Professor of Economics; and William Griffith, Assistant Professor of Philosophy.

GW has become actively involved in the Washington community by initiating several programs utilizing University educational resources and personnel. The following two programs are examples of such activity.

GW will conduct a four-week summer conference for 40 junior high mathematics teachers from the DC school system. The project, supported by a $23,799 grant from the National Science Foundation, is designed to improve mathematics teaching to socially and economically disadvantaged students in Washington. The conference opens July 22 and will be directed by Dr. Ruth A. Bari, Assistant Professor of Mathematics. Follow-up work will continue through the fall and winter.

National Defense Education Act Institute: The GW School of Education will work with 35 DC public school teachers for four weeks this summer in a basic Modern English study program (an introduction to linguistics). During the following school year, the University will work with the same group in reference to the problems of teaching reading in the secondary schools. This is GW's third NDEA Institute, but the first one designed especially for DC teachers. The Institute will be directed by R. L. Williams, Assistant Dean for Summer Sessions.

NEW PUBLICATIONS WORTH READING

THE COLLEGE ENVIRONMENT, by Alexander W. Astin (Washington, D.C., American Council on Education, $3.00). An effort to identify some of the major differences in undergraduate college environments and to develop a set of objective measurements of these differences.

THE LEARNING SOCIETY, by Robert M. Hutchins (New York, N.Y., Frederick A. Praeger). Looking at the most important issues in education and the problems which will be crucial in the next 50 years, an evaluation of current educational systems to see if they are truly developing human minds.

SELECTED CALENDAR EVENTS OF THE WEEK

6 Monday

COLONIALS BOARD MEETING - Alumni Lounge, 8:00 p.m.

MISS D.C. PAGEANT - benefit for Muscular Dystrophy to be televised by Station WTTG. Lisner Auditorium, 8:30 p.m.

7 Tuesday

TEACH-IN - Sponsored by Poor Peoples' Campaign Support Group at GW. Hall of Government, Room 1, 7:30 p.m.

8 Wednesday

GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION MEETING - Alumni Lounge, Bacon Hall.

INTERFAITH FORUM - Speaker: President Lloyd H. Elliott. Topic: "The University: The Establishment and the Individual." Woodhull House, 12:00 Noon.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETING - 6th Floor Conference Room Library, 9:00 p.m.

10 Friday

FACULTY WOMEN'S CLUB LUNCHEON - Speaker: Professor George Kousoulas, Howard University, The Kennedy-Warren, 3133 Connecticut Ave., N.W.

UNIVERSITY SENATE - Faculty Conference Room 6th Floor, Library, 2:19 p.m.

GWU CHILDREN'S THEATRE GUILD - "The 13 Clocks". Benefit for the L. Poe Leggette Scholarship Fund, Lisner Aud., 8:30 p.m. (also Saturday at 1:30 p.m.)

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

- - A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Produced by the Office of Public Relations. Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday, May 13, 1968

The Student Council passed a motion on May 8 expressing its "regret over the actions of those students at Columbia University who, by their raucous and thoughtless conduct, brought out those qualities most deplorable in a university student: namely, immaturity and lack of emotional stability".

Further, although it "supports the basic demands of the students and completely deplores the violent action by the police, it expresses the hope that students in the future will adopt responsible and commensurate forms of protests, including protest such as the form exhibited by GW students in their demands of Friday, April 26th".

An outlined plan to protect GW students and personnel in the event of disorder in the city has been completed by University committees, including students, faculty and administrators. Among the recommendations: University personnel should direct questions regarding closing and operating procedures to direct superiors rather than the offices of the President, Vice Presidents, or Dean of Men or Women; persons needing information should contact the University Information Service, which will have a special number to be issued at a later date; medical facilities will be housed in the Health Center during the day and in Thurston Hall at night; car pools within departments should be formed to accommodate commuters. Terry Hohman, Dean of Men, requests that each department head contact him with the name of an individual within his department who can function as a liaison between the department and the Dean of Men's Office.

The present art show is GW's Dimmock Gallery displays the work of six Washington Negro artists. The show planned on the end of February, opened on May 4, in conjunction with the Negro Arts Festival. The gallery is open Monday through Friday, from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m.

For the third consecutive year, the GW School of Education will conduct a Vocational Guidance Institute, under the direction of Dr. Carl McDaniels, Associate Professor of Education. This is a three-week workshop from July 10-28 for DC high school counselors, to increase their knowledge of career opportunities in the District for high school graduates. The program is being expanded this year to include 10 counselors from D.C. and 10 from schools in the surrounding area. Field trips and seminars are included. The 1967 and 1968 Institutes have been funded by "Plans for Progress," a national organization of business and industrial organizations.

The Education Policy Committee of the Medical School will meet on Saturday, May 18 to evaluate portions of the curriculum of its school. Two discussions, one reviewing the "Developments of Teaching Aids in the Medical School," and the second discussing the "Major Clinical Situations Course" for third year medical students, will be held. Dr. Thomas M. Peery, Professor of Pathology, is chairman of the committee.

NEW PUBLICATIONS WORTH READING

ALTERNATIVE TO IRRELEVANCE, A STRATEGY FOR REFORM IN HIGHER EDUCATION, by Warren B. Martin (Nashville, Tenn., Abingdon Press). Six essays dealing with the need for educational institutions to open themselves to criticism and to creative alternatives without sacrificing that measure of independence necessary to save them from arbitrary or capricious change. The advent of cluster colleges seen as a hopeful alternative.

REPORT OF THE NATIONAL ADVISORY COMMISSION ON CIVIL DISORDERS, with special introduction by Tom Wicker of The New York Times. (A Bantam paperback) An authoritative edition of the Report of the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, complete with text and specially selected photographs from the Commission's records.

SELECTED CALENDAR EVENTS OF THE WEEK

14 Tuesday

INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS SEMINAR - Speaker: Charles P. Baswell, Managing Director, International Division, Purelator Products, Inc. Topic: "Managing International Operations". Room 100, Corcoran Hall, 725 21st St., N.W. 8:00 p.m.

15 Wednesday

LAST DAY OF CLASSES - SPRING SEMESTER

16 Thursday

SEMINAR IN PATENT LAW - Sponsored by GWU Patent Law Program through May 17. Speaker: Commissioner James F. Davis, U.S. Court of Claims. Topic: "Court of Claims Patent Practice." Faculty Conference Room, 6th Floor, University Library.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES ANNUAL MEETING - Board of Trustees Room, Rice Hall. 1:00 p.m.

17 Friday

NATIONAL LAW CENTER - 50th Anniversary Class Reunion, Law Center Library, 10:30 a.m.
Luncheon - National Lawyers Club, 12:15 p.m.

G.A.A. AWARDS DINNER - Speaker: Bob Considine, Syndicated Columnist. Presentation of 25 Year Faculty Awards and Alumni Service Awards. 6:30 p.m.

ANNUAL BANQUET FOR SIGMA XI - Speaker: Dr. Marvin Legator, Chief, Cell Biology Branch Food & Drug Administration. National Academy of Sciences. 6:30 p.m.

18 Saturday

OPEN HOUSE FOR STUDENTS IN PERSONNEL ADMINISTRATION - Rooms 101 and 101-A, Hall of Government. 10:00 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

EXAMINATION PERIOD - through May 25.

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

- - A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Produced by the Office of Public Relations. Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday, May 20, 1968

The University Board of Trustees elected six new members at its meeting on May 16. Four of the trustees are charter trustees, nominated by the Board, and two are alumni trustees, nominated by the Governing Board of the General Alumni Association of the University.

The four charter trustees are: Robert C. Baker, President and Chairman of the Board of American Security and Trust Co.; Joseph H. Hirshhorn, Chairman of the Board of the Callahan Mining Corp., who recently donated a 5,600-piece art collection to the Federal Government; Mark Sullivan, Jr., General Partner with Auchincloss, Parker & Redpath, investment bankers and brokers; and John J. Wilson, Partner with the law firm of Whiteford, Hart, Carmody and Wilson.

The two new alumni trustees are Harold K. Bradford, Minneapolis, Minn., President and Chairman of the Board of Investors Stock Fund, Inc.; and William G. White, San Francisco, Calif., President and a Director of Consolidated Freightways Corp., Inc. Mr. Bradford received a Bachelor of Laws degree from George Washington in 1930. Mr. White, who was given GW's Outstanding Alumnus Award in 1959, received his Bachelor of Science degree in 1956.

David J. Jeffery, staff assistant for the Education Subcommittee of the Greater Baltimore Committee, has been appointed Editor of GW Magazine in the Office of Public Relations. Mr. Jeffery is a graduate of Yale and Johns Hopkins Universities and has completed the Radcliffe Publishing Procedures Course. He has taught at St. Paul's School and at the University of Baltimore. Mr. Jeffery will assume his duties on June 1.

GW has been selected as one of 27 colleges and universities throughout the country to conduct a regional institute this summer and during the 1968-69 academic year for teachers, teacher-trainers and administrators of adult basic education. The institutes will be supported by a $1.5 million grant under the Adult Basic Education Act of 1966. Dr. Leonard Nadler, Associate Professor of Education, will direct the institute.

"Washington At Work," a picture story depicting many of the jobs available in the Washington area for high school graduates, will be shown in conjunction with the Board of Trade-sponsored "Job Opportunities Week," May 20-24 at the District Armory. The pictures shown were taken by photographers of the Evening Star.

The picture exhibit includes 100 photographs illustrating 100 entry-level positions in various major Washington businesses. These positions are the type of employment that will be available to high school graduates, without further training. High school students will visit the Armory to view the exhibit, and also to talk to some 38 area employers about job possibilities.

The pictures from the exhibit were shown on Channel 26 during the week of May 13, and will be used as rotating exhibits in area high schools next fall.

This latest project is an outgrowth of last year's Vocational Guidance Institute, which, as the project, was directed by Carl McDaniels, Associate Professor of Education. Both are sponsored by Plans for Progress, a national group of businesses and industries which helps promote job opportunities for minority youth.

NEW PUBLICATIONS

THE ACADEMIC REVOLUTION, by Christopher Jencks and David Riesman, Doubleday and Co., Garden City, N.Y., describes the professional scholars and scientists rise to power in American society. This is primarily a descriptive analysis of American higher education from the early 19th century to the present. The authors see such consequences of a growing academic meritocracy as: conflicts between young and old, a shift from entrepreneurship to professionalism as ideals, academic elitism, and complacency. An impressive result of the revolution is a massive educational system which maintains a high level of technical performance among faculty and students. The authors begin with general theorizing on the development of American society and its colleges and then discuss different species of colleges and their relationships - past and present - to the interest groups that founded them.

SALVAGE, REDIRECTION, OR CUSTODY? REMEDIAL EDUCATION IN THE COMMUNITY JUNIOR COLLEGE, by John E. Roueche (Washington, D.C., American Association of Junior Colleges). An analysis of how effectively the junior colleges are educating the disadvantaged, low-aptitude students, and the increasing political and social implications of such a task.

SELECTED CALENDAR EVENTS OF THE WEEK

23 Thursday

MEDICAL ALUMNI WEEKEND - Topic: "The Eye and You." Postgraduate course in ophthalmology open to all physicians. Main Conference Room, GW Hospital; all day beginning at 9:00 a.m.

24 Friday

MEDICAL ALUMNI WEEKEND - Scientific Session, GW Hospital, 8:30 a.m. Golf, Lakewood Country Club, Rockville, Maryland 1:00 p.m. Receptions and reunions followed by dinner and dancing, Shoreham Hotel, 6:30 p.m.

25 Saturday

MEDICAL ALUMNI WEEKEND - Scientific session, GW Hospital, 9:00 a.m.

INTERNATIONAL BACH PIANO COMPETITION - Preliminaries and semi-finals, Lisner Aud., 8:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

COLUMBIAN WOMEN - Annual Meeting, Brunch at Cosmos Club, 10:00 a.m.

PHI BETA KAPPA INITIATION - Faculty Conference Room, 6th Floor, Library, 11:30 a.m.

26 Sunday

INTERNATIONAL BACH PIANO COMPETITION FINALS, Lisner Aud., 12:00 noon to 5:00 p.m.

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

--A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Produced by the Office of Public Relations. Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday, September 23, 1968

A new academic calendar, which includes a three-week reading-exam period, will begin on a three-year trial in September, 1969.

The first week of the three-week period will be for reading, review, and independent study, with examinations scheduled only during the last two weeks.

The new system will apply to Columbian College, the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, and the Schools of Engineering and Applied Science, Education, Government and Business Administration, Public and International Affairs, General Studies on Campus, and the Division of University Students.

John Parks, Dean of the Medical Center, has announced that all members of the 1968 Junior Class of the Medical School passed Part I of their National Board Examination. GW's School of Medicine is the only one of 62 medical schools, with 5,271 examinees in the U.S. and Canada, in which there were no failures. The exam was given in June, 1968.

GW has admitted 26 underprivileged District of Columbia students to its freshman class through generous aid programs providing their full financial need. If these students do acceptable work, they will continue to receive financial aid, to the extent of their need, through GW's four-year undergraduate program. Although most of the 26 met the University's admissions standards, very few of them could have qualified for GW's regular grants-in-aid, which are highly competitive.

The few students in the program who failed to meet the University's admission standards were placed in a group of about 75 students admitted this year on an experimental basis to determine the relevance of the so-called "college-board scores."

One of America's pioneer missile scientists, formerly with the White Sands Missile range in New Mexico, has joined the faculty of the School of Engineering and Applied Science as Research Professor in Electrical Engineering.

Professor Guenther Hintze has spent more than 25 years in the field of missile development. He has also taught computer and system analysis courses at the University of Texas.

The only clearinghouse for documents on higher education, to be operated in cooperation with the American Council on Education and its affiliated associations, has been established at GW. The clearinghouse will be part of the Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC), a network that collects and disseminates educational research documents, articles and bibliographic resources.

While General Dwight D. Eisenhower was receiving treatment at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, heart patients at GW hospital were experiencing the same coronary care. About 10,000 people a year have received the treatment given to the former president, through similar coronary care units in 800 US hospitals one of which is GW.

President Johnson has promoted Col. Frederick E. Davison to the rank of Brigadier General in the U.S. Army. Col. Davison is the third Negro in history to achieve the rank of General. He received a master's degree in International Affairs from GW in 1963.

A GW graduate, Lt. John S. Pugh, U.S. Navy, is one of the so-called "whiz-kids," handpicked for service on the U.S.S. John F. Kennedy attack aircraft carrier, the world's largest naval vessel. Lieutenant Pugh, an engineer with a master's degree in financial management from GW, is responsible for coordinating the ship's nine computers.

GW, in cooperation with the Neighborhood Legal Services Program, an affiliate of the United Planning Organization, will conduct a legal project to involve graduate law students in first-hand training, dealing with urban problems. The Office of Economic Opportunity is financing this demonstration program, which will draw on the coordinated efforts of two major programs, Volunteers in Service to America and Legal Services.

The work-study project will enable 25 attorneys, all recent law school graduates, to study for master of laws degrees at GW while helping citizen groups in low-income areas of the city plan organized action to resolve problems and break through poverty barriers.

SELECTED CALENDAR EVENTS OF THE WEEK

25 Wednesday

INTERFAITH FORUM - Speaker: Ernest W. Lefever, Brookings Institution.
Topic: "Religious Ethics and American Imperial Responsibility." Woodhull House, 12:00 noon.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETING - Speaker: William D. Johnson, Comptroller.
Topic: "The Budget." Conference Room, 6th Floor Library, 9:00 p.m.

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

--A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Produced by the Office of Public Relations. Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday, October 7, 1968

GW and the National Bureau of Standards have entered an agreement to cooperate in training and research on the advanced graduate level in the general sciences. Affecting primarily the University departments of physics, chemistry and mathematics, and the School of Engineering and Applied Science, the arrangement provides for an exchange of personnel and a maximum use of facilities of both institutions.

Carl Walther, who is co-director of the program with Dr. Shirleigh Silverman, associate director for university relations at the National Bureau of Standards, said "the University can use the services of top-level personnel from the National Bureau of Standards as adjunct professors. They can help plan curricula in departmental meetings and can advise and direct the research of graduate students."

In addition, the National Bureau of Standards will make available its specialized facilities, which include a radiation physics lab with a 100 million volt linear accelerator, for graduate students or professors from GW.

The October issue of the Washingtonian reports that "by the end of 1969, GW will have the best emergency room in town." The article, entitled "Which Emergency Room Should You Go To," rates GW as a four-star hospital on a scale of five, and discusses plans for near-future expansion of emergency room facilities.

In the same issue, law student Peggy Cooper, also a June graduate of GW, is featured under "Capital Newsmakers" for her work in organizing and administering the Summer Workshop for Careers in the Arts.

Lyle T. Alverson, a GW law graduate, '68, has provided a scholarship to be given to a student from his hometown high school in Barrington, Ill., to participate in the University's 1969 Secondary School Honors Program. Mr. Alverson read about the program in GW: The University Magazine, and wrote to Jean Gladding, the program's director, advising that if feasible, he would like to make it possible for a talented high school junior from his hometown to attend the program.

The Social Research Group, under the direction of Ira Cisin, has received a grant for $445,172 to "Collect, Process, Analyze, Report and Present Data on the Current Status of Racial Integration in the Public Schools of the U.S."

The Department of Pediatrics, School of Medicine, has received a grant for $22,054 to study "Crib Deaths" in infants. The project, headed by Dr. Felix Heald, will attempt to determine the causes and characteristics of infants, between the ages of two weeks and one year, who die suddenly with no noticeable prior symptoms. The GW research team is presently working to monitor the heart and respiratory rates of infants soon after birth for a period of approximately six months. Each year, a minimum of 15,000 infants are stricken by this illness.

Quotes from national media:

From the Saturday Review, Sept. 21: "George Washington University in Washington, D.C., responded to wide-ranging student demands by launching two programs to involve students in the workings of the university and by hiring one of the nation's top experts in Negro history and culture, Dr. Jay Saunders Redding."

From Look Magazine, Oct. 1, in an article titled, "Vanguard of the Campus Revolt": "... at Duke, George Washington, New York University and many other schools--including embattled Columbia--major reforms have been announced that will give students--and faculty--a far greater voice in the running of these institutions."

From a nationally distributed Associated Press article Sept. 19 on "Draft Law Changes Fail to Cut Grad Enrollment": "... As students flock back to campus, some university administrators report small decreases in enrollment, but other graduate schools say attendance is equal to or higher than last year... Now, speaking privately, some deans and vice presidents are saying the claims of last spring were 'mistaken evaluations' or the result of people trying to make points to get the publicity they thought they needed'...at George Washington University in the capital, Dr. Harold Bright, academic vice president, said 'it looks as if our registration might be up slightly. This would almost be a random variation since we are not expanding. The draft certainly does not seem to have hurt us.'"

SELECTED CALENDAR EVENTS OF THE WEEK

9 Wednesday

INTERFAITH FORUM: Topic: "Religious Prophetic Voice and The Problem of Public Poverty." Speaker: Rabbi Saul Besser, Woodhull House, 12:00 Noon.

INJECTIONS FOR INFLUENZA A AND B: 12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m., Lower Lounge, Lisner Aud.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETING: Speaker: E.K. Morris, Chairman of University Board of Trustees. Topic: "University Trusteeship." Faculty Conference Room, 6th Floor, Library, 9:00 p.m.

10 Thursday

INJECTIONS FOR INFLUENZA A AND B: 12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m., Lower Lounge, Lisner Aud.

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

-- A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Produced by the Office of Public Relations. Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday, October 14, 1968

Frederick J. Naramore, formerly manager of the management advisory services department of Price Waterhouse and Company, has been appointed University Comptroller, effective Oct. 21.

The appointment, announced by University Vice President and Treasurer Henry Herzog, allows William D. Johnson, formerly both Comptroller and Director of the Budget, to devote full time to the latter duty. Mr. Naramore, a graduate of Villanova with a B.S. in economics, became a Certified Public Accountant in Washington in 1953. He served the Sutherland Company for nine years as vice-president in management consulting.

A $52,000 grant from the Department of Labor will finance the training of 200 inner-city Negro women as nurse's aides at George Washington University Hospital during the next year. Those who satisfactorily complete the program will be employed full-time.

GW's program is part of Washington's Concentrated Employment Program, which seeks to provide on-the-job training for new employees.

A three-year project to study the juvenile offender and the law, on both a national and local basis, will be conducted through GW's National Law Center. Funded through the National Institute of Mental Health, the program is designed to first "correct, tabulate, and analyze juvenile court statutes, case law, articles and statistical data on a nationwide basis," according to one of the program's directors, Elyce Z. Ferster, associate professor of law.

In the second phase of the program, the project will undertake a detailed descriptive analysis of the juvenile justice system in Montgomery County, Md. The program is co-directed by Thomas F. Courtless, associate professor of law and criminology at the law center.

Warren R. Berrie, a senior in the Medical School, has received a merit award of $250 from the National Capital Area Chapter of the National Foundation of the March of Dimes, for his research paper entitled, "Chromosomal Analysis of Spontaneous Abortions." The award is presented as part of a cooperative program between the March of Dimes and the country's medical schools.

GW's United Givers Fund Campaign will begin today and continue until Nov. 15. In the short history of organized campaigns at GW, the amount raised has more than tripled from $14,777 in 1955-56 to $32,253 last year. Slaters Catering Service has made the first pledge to the campaign by contributing the buffet to be served at the Key Man Kickoff Reception on Lower Lister at 3:30 this afternoon.

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

- - A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Produced by the Office of Public Relations. Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday, October 21, 1968

President Elliott has accepted a recommendation from Student Council President James Knicely, University Senate Executive Committee Chairman Reuben Wood, and Vice President for Academic Affairs Harold Bright that "a committee be appointed by you (President Elliott) to consider the overall policy of the University with respect to sponsored research."

The Committee, to report directly to President Elliott, will consider such questions as "the extent to which the University would accept classified research," research involving proprietary information, and so on. The term, "classified research" is to be "carefully defined" by the Committee.

The Committee is to be made up of three students, three faculty members, and three administrators, to be nominated, respectively, by Mr. Knicely, Dr. Wood, and Dr. Bright. Mr. Knicely, Dr. Wood, and Dr. Bright will serve as ex officio members of the committee.

Alumni seminars, led by faculty members, bus tours of the campus, an alumni reception, a buffet dinner, and the musical, "Carnival," on Friday; and a carnival, parade on "F" and "G" streets and a dinner-dance Saturday will highlight Homecoming '68 activities this weekend, Oct. 25 through Oct. 26. For details of activities, location and times, see "Selected Calendar Events" on reverse side.

A 12/60 AutoAnalyzer, which can make all the tests from one sample of serum from a patient, rather than from several samples, has been installed in the new Central Labs on the 4th floor of GW Hospital. The autoanalyzer takes about nine minutes to process each sample of serum, each having been separated from a blood sample. Several samples can be processed simultaneously, so that about 40 patients can be tested each hour.

The fourth floor of the hospital now houses all laboratories, which were previously located on different floors throughout the hospital.

Basketball Coach Wayne Dobbs, in his second year as Colonial mentor, has assembled a cage team that is the tallest in GW basketball history. The team, which is described as "the area's best" by sports writers, opens its season against The Citadel in South Carolina on Nov. 30.

The 21 players on GW's Varsity Soccer Squad represent 10 foreign countries, including Uruguay, Haiti, France, Mexico, Brazil, Cuba, Biafra, Greece and Liberia.

Reginald M. Bonhomme, a freshman from Port-au-Prince, Haiti, is the son of the Ambassador to the United States. An engineering major at GW, Rodolfo LaPorta is the son of the Uruguay representative to the Inter-American Defense Board. Quona A. Taylor played on the Liberian National team prior to coming to the U.S. His father is the Assistant Secretary of Health in Liberia.

SELECTED CALENDAR EVENTS FOR THE WEEK

21 Monday

GW TODAY: Alumni relations program on the campus for GW Alumni and Friends.

22 Tuesday

THE LAW OF SOFTWARE CONFERENCE - Sponsored by GW Computers-in-Law Institute.
Hotel America, 9:00 a.m. (Also on Tuesday, Oct. 23, beginning at 9:30 a.m.)

23 Wednesday

INTERFAITH FORUM: Topic: "The Future of The Black Church in America."
Speaker: Reverend John Walker, Cannon, National Cathedral. Woodhull House, Noon.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETING: Topic: "Academic and Curricular Development."
Speaker: Harold F. Bright, Vice President for Academic Affairs. Faculty
Conference Room, 6th Floor, Library, 9:00 p.m.

24 Thursday

ADVISORY COUNCIL MEETING: School of Government and Business Administration.
Board Room, Rice Hall, 10:00 a.m.

UNIVERSITY FOCUS: Topic: "The University Senate and Its Role in the University."
Speaker: Reuben Wood, Executive Committee Chairman, University Senate. Concordia
Church, 8:30 p.m.

25 Friday

ELECTION SYMPOSIUM: Topic: "The Democratic Ideal." Speaker: Sen. Daniel Brewster, (Md.). B'nai Brith Hillel Foundation, 2129 F. St., 12:30 p.m.

HOMEcoming '68:

Alumni Seminars: "Election '68," Alumni Lounge, Bacon Hall
(3:30-5:00 p.m.) "Trouble in Eastern Europe," Maury Hall, Rm. 30
"The University and the Ghetto," Law Library
"Student Power," Woodhull House, Rm. C

Bus Tour of the Campus: Leave Lisner Auditorium between 4:45 and 6:00 p.m.

Reception for Alumni: Dimock Gallery of Lisner Aud., 5:30 - 6:45 p.m.

Buffet Dinner: Thurston Hall, 6:30 - 7:45 p.m.

"Carnival," the Homecoming Musical: Lisner Aud., 8:30 p.m.

26 Saturday

HOMEcoming '68:

Homecoming Parade: "F" and "G" Streets, 10:00 a.m.

Homecoming Carnival: Courtyard behind the Library, 11:00 a.m.

Basketball game: Freshman Basketball Team, Men's Gym: 2:30 p.m.

Colonials, Inc. Reception: Alumni Lounge, Bacon Hall, 4:00 p.m.

Homecoming Dinner-Dance: Sheraton Park Hotel, 8:00 p.m.

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

- - A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Produced by the Office of Public Relations. Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday, October 28, 1968

A GW research group, headed by Jack W. Millar, Professor of Epidemiology and Environmental Health, will conduct one of the first major studies of the effectiveness of different vaccines to control Hong Kong type influenza on 1000 Montgomery County High School students and teachers this winter.

Hong King flu, a virulent new strain of the disease, was first reported in the Far East last summer. A few cases, spread by travelers, already have been reported in the U.S. The first batches of a new vaccine, produced from strains of the Hong Kong type A-2 influenza virus, are expected to be ready in about six weeks.

The new vaccine will be given to one group of the Montgomery students participating in the study, while others will receive vaccine prepared from the older type A2 and B influenza viruses. A third group will receive the current type B influenza vaccine.

The GW researchers, assisted by the Montgomery County Health Department, will follow the health records of vaccinated students in each of the three test groups throughout the winter to check the relative effectiveness of the different vaccines.

The National Law Center's Law Library has been named in honor of Jacob Burns, a GW law alumnus, '24. The announcement was made by Charles E. Phillips, a member of the University's Board of Trustees following the Board's action on Oct. 19.

A corporate lawyer from New York, Mr. Burns has made a significant gift to the construction of the library and the renovation and air-conditioning of Stockton Hall. Mr. Burns is a member of the bar in the District of Columbia and the State of New York, a director of Revlon, Inc., and the former chairman of the Board of Directors of USV Pharmaceutical Corp.

A Master of Philosophy degree has been established at GW to be awarded, upon departmental recommendation, to Ph.D. candidates who have successfully completed the General Examination for the Ph.D. degree.

Award-winning films from this year's Third National Student Film Festival will be shown for the first time in the Washington area in Lisner Auditorium, Nov. 1 and 2 at 8:30 p.m. The two-hour program is being presented by the U.S. National Students Association and GW's Student Council. The Student Council will give its profits to the council-sponsored Inner City Scholarship Fund.

Thomas C. Teeples, formerly Assistant Director of GW's Computer Center, has been appointed Director of the Data Processing Center, effective Nov. 1. Herbert Kreppein has been named Associate Director of the latter. The Data Processing Center at GW provides computing services for the administration, while the Computer Center serves the academic side.

SELECTED CALENDAR EVENTS FOR THE WEEK

28 Monday

UNIVERSITY COMMUTERS ASSOCIATION - Library, 6th Floor, Conference Room 4-5 p.m.

29 Tuesday

COMMITTEE OF GRADUATE STUDENTS IN EDUCATION - Library, 6th Floor, Conference Room, 12:30 - 5 p.m.

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL - Library, 6th Floor, Conference Room, 8:30 - 11 p.m.

30 Wednesday

COMMITTEE OF GRADUATE STUDENTS IN EDUCATION - Library, 6th Floor, Conference Room, 9 a.m. - 1 p.m.

INTERFAITH FORUM: Topic: "The Black Man's Role in Solving the Racial Crisis." Speaker: Reverend David Eaton, Federal City College, Woodhull House, Noon.

EXECUTIVE DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM FOR COLLEGE OF GENERAL STUDIES - Library, 6th Floor, Conference Room, 3:30 - 6:30 p.m.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETING - Topic: University Admission Policies. Speaker: Joseph Y. Ruth, Library, 6th Floor, Conference Room, 9 p.m.

31 Thursday - - See Below

1 Friday

ELECTION SYMPOSIUM - Topic: "The Prophetic Ideal." Speaker: Rabbi Richard Hirsch, Director of Religious Action Center, Union of American Hebrew Congregations. B'nai Brith Hillel Foundation, 2129 F St., 12:30 p.m.

WASHINGTON PREMIERE - AWARD WINNING FILMS OF STUDENT FILM FESTIVAL, Lisner Auditorium, 8:30 p.m. (also Saturday evening, 8:30) Tickets, $2.50, $1.50.

2 Saturday

"Music From Marlboro." Washington Performing Arts Society, Lisner Auditorium, 3:00 p.m.

The Orange and the Black Takes to the Streets

MARCHES: Hundreds of thousands of under twelves inundate Washington and the suburbs.

CONFRONTATION: Demands will be made; if they are not met the adult power structure will pay.

SYMBOLS: Disguises will be worn to illustrate horror. Carved grotesques will be illuminated.

TACTICS: Non violence will be practiced. But marchers should carry soap to write protests.

LEADER: We will be united. The Great Pumpkin will rise again.

d.j.

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

- -A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Produced by the Office of Public Relations. Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday, November 18, 1968

Dr. Norman E. Shumway, who performed America's first adult heart transplant last January, will deliver the annual Smith-Reed-Russell Lecture of The George Washington University School of Medicine on Thursday, Nov. 21, at 8 p.m.

The Stanford University surgeon, who devised the transplantation technique used by his fellow surgeon at the University of Minnesota, Dr. Christiaan Barnard, in the world's first human transplant, will speak in Hall A of the School of Medicine on "The Current Status of Cardiac Transplantation."

Dr. Shumway is a Professor of Surgery and Chief of the Division of Cardiovascular Surgery at Stanford.

An editorial entitled "Eve of Destruction," written by Hatchet editor Paul Panitz, was reprinted in the Washington Examiner, on Thursday, Nov. 14. The editorial first appeared in the Nov. 8 issue of the Hatchet.

The papers of the late George Gamov, internationally renown physicist who once taught at GW, are on display in the Manuscript Reading Room, third floor, Library of Congress, annex building; 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Free.

The George Washington University Concerts presents the first concert in its 1968-69 faculty series on Thursday, Nov. 21, at 8:30 p.m. in Lisner Auditorium. The concert will be performed by the University Baroque Ensemble, including Music Faculty members George Steiner, violin; Robert Parris, harpsicord; Phyllis Gieseler, soprano; Norman Irvine, bass viol, and a small string ensemble.

Nearly 5,000 persons contributed to GW's 1967-68 Annual Support Program, which topped its $400,000 goal by $27,000. GW alumnus Everett H. Bellows, (AB '39, AM '41), Washington Vice-President of the Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., headed the campaign. A goal of $500,000 has been set for the 1968-69 campaign, which Mr. Bellows will again head.

Preliminary returns of a study entitled, "The Psychotropic Drug Acquisition and Use," directed by Hugh J. Perry, a member of the Social Research Group at GW, indicate that about one-half of the adult population has had personal experience with psychotropic (mind-turning) drugs and a quarter use them regularly. Its base calculation is that one-quarter of the adult population now takes them to sleep better, to stay awake more reliably, or to achieve some semblance of inner peace. The psychotropes are one group of mood-changing drugs. Another is the "hard" narcotics-heroin, cocaine, and morphine. The psychedelics, LSD, marijuana, etc., form a third.

The "hard" mood changers are associated with "urban slums, depressed minorities and organized crime," said Dr. Perry, and the psychedelics go with "avant-gardism, alienation and the revolt of youth."

As of now, sociology can't classify the psychotropic users even though they vastly outnumber the other mood-changers, perhaps because they are legally available, with and often without a doctor's prescription.

SELECTED CALENDAR EVENTS FOR THE WEEK

18 Monday

GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS PROGRAM - Faculty Conference Room, 6th Floor Library, 9 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. (Everyday through Friday)

SOCIAL RESEARCH CONFERENCE - Rice Hall Conference Room, 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.
(Wednesday and Friday)

ACADEMIC EVALUATION MEETING - Rice Hall Conference Room, 8:30 p.m. - 9:30 p.m.

19 Tuesday

BOOK STORE COMMITTEE MEETING - Rice Hall Conference Room, 2:30 - 4:30 p.m.

MEETING OF INSTITUTE FOR SANITATION MANAGEMENT - Faculty Conference Room, 6th
Floor Library, beginning at 5:30 p.m.

20 Wednesday

INTERFAITH FORUM - Topic: "Ethical Humanism--A World Faith," Speaker: Edward L.
Ericson, Washington Ethical Society. Woodhull House, Noon.

EXECUTIVE DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM FOR COLLEGE OF GENERAL STUDIES - Faculty Conference
Room, 6th Floor Library, 3:30 p.m. - 6 p.m.

FREE UNIVERSITY - Monroe Hall 202, 8:30 p.m. - 9:45 p.m.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETING - Faculty Conference Room, 6th Floor Library, 9:00 p.m.

21 Thursday

UNIVERSITY COMMUTERS ASSOCIATION MEETING - Woodhull House, 12 p.m. - 5 p.m.

NATIONAL SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA - Lisner Aud., 2 p.m.

FIRST OF CONCERT SERIES - GW ORCHESTRA, George Steiner Conducting, Lisner Aud., 8:30 p.m.

22 Friday

PRE-MED SOCIETY - Corcoran Hall, 9 a.m. - 6 p.m.

COLONIAL CONCERT - PAUL BUTTERFIELD BLUES BAND, Lisner Aud., 8:30 p.m.

23 Saturday

CLAUDE FRANK PIANO RECITAL, Lisner Aud., 3 p.m.

ENRICO MACIAS, SINGER - Lisner Aud., 8:30 p.m.

24 Sunday

ALIRIO DIAZ, GUITARIST, Lisner Aud., 3 p.m.

FALL FANTASY, fashion show presented by Lady Carter, wife of Ambassador of Guiana, 8:30 p.m.

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

-- A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Produced by the Office of Public Relations. Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday, November 25, 1968

GW's "Program in Dance" will sponsor a Dance Film Festival today and tomorrow in the dance studio, Building J, beginning this morning at 10:00 a.m. and tomorrow at 9:00 a.m. Selected films include: "The Language of Dance," "Invention in Dance," "A Dancer's World," "An Artist and His Work" and "Dance With Us." Members of the faculty, administration and students are invited to attend.

Research work by Gordon B. Avery, Associate Professor of Pediatrics and his lab assistant, Carl Hunt, may help answer the question of how a mother carries an unborn child for nine months without rejecting it the way the body rejects other foreign organisms. The answer to that secret of nature may hold the key to increased success in organ transplants.

Groups working around the United States identified at the second International Congress of the Transplantation Society the different mechanisms that keep a mother from rejecting her embryo child, although they still do not know how the mechanisms work and the relative importance of each one.

Dr. Avery and Mr. Hunt have identified the natural barrier that separates a mother's cells from those of embryo as the trophoblast, which are giant-sized cells that are major components of the placenta, which surrounds the unborn child in the mother's womb. The trophoblast contains nuclear matter from both mother and child, and the mother's body develops a "Tolerance to cells" from the unborn child.

Relating to transplantations of organs, it has been suggested that doctors could create a "Tolerance" in the recipient's body before a transplant by giving him injections composed of cellular matter from the donor.

Dr. George Speck, a graduate "with distinction" from the GWU School of Medicine, was presented the Award of Merit of The George Washington University Medical Alumni Association at the group's annual luncheon on Nov. 22. An obstetrician-gynecologist practicing in Alexandria, Va., Dr. Speck has presided over the Medical Alumni Association for two terms, and this past year co-chairman of the Medical Annual Support Program.

A three-judge Federal appeals court has upheld a Federal Communications Commission ruling requiring broadcasters who air cigarette commercials to allow time for arguments against smoking. The ruling was adopted by FCC after John F. Banzhaf, III, Associate Professor of Law, asked WCBS-TV in New York to provide free time for anti-smokers to respond to pro-smoking views in cigarette commercials. Banzhaf's original appeal for equal time was refused by FCC, but the Commission did rule "that broadcasters had to provide a significant amount of time for the other viewpoint."

"The District of Columbia Circuit Court of Appeals panel said there was ample evidence that smoking probably is dangerous to human health, and ruled that radio and television stations which carry cigarette advertising have an obligation in the public interest to offset this by carrying anti-smoking arguments."

Professor Banzhaf is a spokesman for ASH (Action on Smoking and Health), which is the legal action arm of the anti-smoking, pro-health movement.

SELECTED CALENDAR EVENTS FOR THE WEEK

25 Monday

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS LECTURE - "Traveling Salesmen I Have Known: With Extensions," C. Terrance Ireland, Assistant Professor of Statistics. Corcoran Rm. 100, 8-11 p.m.

DANCE FILM FESTIVAL - Building J, 10 a.m. Free.

PHOTO ID COMMITTEE MEETING - Rice Hall, Rm. 615 and 616, 10-11:30 a.m.

EDUCATIONAL POLICY COMMITTEE MEETING OF THE UNIVERSITY SENATE - Rice Hall, Rm. 615 and 616, 1-5 p.m.

HEALTH CARE ADMINISTRATION MEETING - Corcoran Rm. 106, 3-5 p.m.

GW MOBILIZATION FOR PEACE - Hall of Government, Rm. 1, 7-11 p.m.

26 Tuesday

ECONOMIC HONOR SOCIETY (OMICRON DELTA EPSILON) - Woodhull C, 3-5 p.m.

DANCE FILM FESTIVAL - Building J, 9 a.m. Free.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETING - The Faculty Conference Rm., 4-5 p.m. (Library)

INTERNATIONAL TRADE PROGRAM - Faculty Conference Rm., 6-8:30 p.m. (Library)

UNDERGRADUATE POLITICAL SCIENCE MAJORS MEETING - Woodhull C, 7-9 p.m.

"THE CASTLE" BY KAFKA - sponsored by the German Language Society. Lisner Aud., 8:30 p.m. (tickets-667-2416).

27 Wednesday

COLLEGE OF GENERAL STUDIES EXECUTIVE DIVISION PROGRAM - Faculty Conference Rm., 3:30-6:30 p.m.

PHILOSOPHY DEPARTMENT MEETING - Rice Hall 615 and 616, 4-5:30 p.m.

THANKSGIVING LUNCHEON - Faculty Club, 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. Members, $1.25; non-members, $2.25.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION FOR MEN MEETING - Corcoran 220, from 8-9 p.m.; Corcoran 103, 9-11 p.m.

28 Thursday

HAPPY THANKSGIVING!

29 Friday - 1 Sunday

NATIONAL BALLET - Lisner Aud., 8:30 p.m.

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

- - A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Produced by the Office of Public Relations. Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday, December 2, 1968

GW has received a grant for $210,500 from the National Science Foundation to fund a project entitled "Expansion of the Computer Center." According to Raymond E. Thomas, Assistant Professor of Statistics, who is directing the project, the funds will be used to support new IBM equipment that has been rented to upgrade and replace former computers.

A study prepared by Clarence H. Danhof, Professor of Economics, and issued by the Brookings Institution, indicates that the dramatic increase of investment in research and development since 1950 has raised a flock of new problems for Government, for industry and the universities. The major factor in this phenomenon, the study says, is a system of Government contracts providing for "various kinds of scientific investigation and technological developments out of the Government itself."

Describing the changes in research which have occurred during the past 25 years, the study reports that before World War II, the principal areas of research were in military aeronautics, agriculture and standards. Then came atomic energy, medicine and health research, as well as basic research on a rising scale. Now the system has grown so vast and so heavily oriented to research and development for the military that questions have arisen as to whether civilian needs may not be overshadowed and perhaps slighted.

Janet Travell, Associate Clinical Professor of Medicine, and White House physician for the late President Kennedy, has authored an autobiography, entitled, "Office Hours: Day and Night." Published by the New American Library in Association with the World Publishing Company, the book will be released in January.

Members of the administrative staff and faculty are invited to attend the opening of an exhibition by the Washington Kiln Club in the Dimock Gallery of Lisner on December 5 at 7:00 p.m. The exhibition will include sculpture and pottery.

In addition to submitting ceramic works to juried shows, the members of the 22-year-old Kiln Club are active in community projects with the D.C. Recreation Department. The artist-craftsmen nucleus of potters and sculptors have toured the D.C. schools giving lecture demonstrations to inner-city students and the Metropolitan area schools.

GW's United Givers Fund Campaign has reached a total of $37,414. Those who have not yet made a contribution, may do so until December 15 when the campaign ends.

GW's Debate Team, coached by Thomas E. Harris, Instructor in Speech, won first and Third place in the Johns Hopkins National Invitational Tournament the weekend of Nov. 22. GW's team won the same tournament in 1967; 61-64. Debating were Steve Remsberg, who also won the 1st Speaker Award; James Swartz; Steve Johnson; and Andrew Macon.

SELECTED CALENDAR EVENTS FOR THE WEEK

2 Monday

HEALTH CARE ADMINISTRATION - Corcoran 106, 3-5 p.m.

GOVERNMENT CONTRACT PROGRAM - Faculty Conference Room Library, 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m.
(Tuesday and Wednesday)

UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO GRADUATE TEA - Woodhull House C, 7-9:30 p.m.

RESIDENCE HALL STAFF MEETING - Faculty Conference Room, Library, 8-10 p.m.

3 Tuesday

LIBRARY COUNCIL MEETING - Library Committee Room 601, 9:30-11:30 a.m.

DC AREA STUDENT HEALTH MEETING - Faculty Conference Room, Library, 7:30-10:30 p.m.

4 Wednesday

MODEL GOVERNMENT - Monroe 102, 8:30-10 p.m.

INTERFAITH FORUM - Topic: "New Niches in the Structure," Speaker: Fr. Duffy, of the Priest's Senate and Association. Woodhull House, C. Noon.

UNIVERSITY CENTER MEETING - Rice Hall 615-616, 2:30- 4 p.m.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETING - Faculty Conference Room, Library, 9 p.m.

5 Thursday

NATIONAL SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA - Lisner Aud., 2 p.m.

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY ORCHESTRA - Lisner Aud., 8:30 p.m.

6 Friday

BIOLOGY SEMINAR - with Dr. G. L. Fowler, Faculty Conference Room, Library, 2 p.m.

GW HIGH SCHOOL DISCUSSION CONFERENCE PROGRAM - Topic: "How Can the U.S. Best Maintain Manpower for An Effective Defense System?" Lisner Aud., 2:45 p.m. (Intercollegiate Debate)

B'NAI BRITH HILLEL FORUM ON MARRIAGE - "Pre-Marital Problems" by Dr. Malcolm Meltzer, 2129 F St., 12:30 p.m.

7 Saturday

SEMINAR IN ADULT EDUCATION - Faculty Conference Room, Library, 9 a.m. - Noon.

DAVID BEAN, PIANIST - Lisner Aud., 3 p.m.

OPERA SOCIETY OF WASHINGTON - "Amahl and the Night Visitors" and "The Medium," Lisner Aud., 8 p.m.

8 Sunday

IRISH ROVERS - Lisner Aud., 3 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

-- A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Produced by the Office of Public Relations. Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday, December 9, 1968

Actor-director Paul Newman has narrated, without charge, a 45-minute television documentary on drug addiction and drug abuse, "Flowers of Darkness," produced by George Washington's department of medical and public affairs, in cooperation with the National Institute of Mental Health.

Dabney Hibbert, a junior English literature major at GW, will be one of the bridesmaids in Julie Nixon's wedding in New York on Dec. 22. Miss Hibbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Lewis Hibbert of Washington, was one of Julie's best friends during the years the Nixons lived in Washington.

Cecil B. Jacobson, Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology, has found in a study of LSD users who had therapeutic abortions, that a woman who takes LSD is 25 per cent more likely to conceive an abnormal baby than a non-user. The GW team headed by Dr. Jacobson found four fetuses (of the 14 studied) that were highly abnormal, showing brain and skull defects. Dr. Jacobson also studied 75 other female LSD users and found in "at least 50 per cent" indications of the same "moderate to severe" chromosome defects as those found in the women who aborted defective fetuses. This same chromosome damage found in tissues and blood cells of the defective fetuses also can be caused by a father's taking LSD, the geneticist said.

A speakers series sponsored by GW's Department of Urban and Regional Planning will present its first program Dec. 11 at 7:00 p.m. in the Faculty Conference Room of the Library. William Goodman, Professor and Chairman of the Department of Urban Planning at the University of Illinois, will speak on "The Extending Intellectual Horizons for the Urban Planner."

William Forbes of Charles H. Tompkins Co. has received an award in the "Woodworking" category from the Washington Building Congress for his work on the Jacob Burns Law Library at GW. Employees of any general contractor or subcontractor on job sites in the Washington area, or men doing custom work within a shop or factory, including shop drawings, were eligible for awards.

Astere E. Claeysens, Associate Professor of Creative Writing, has won an Emmy Award for his television program, "One to One," which is aired on WETA-TV in Washington and in many cities on the East coast. The program, a personal approach to literature, competed against nine other continuing programs for the award. Professor Claeysens developed the program through selecting books which he particularly enjoys because a private voice of the author comes through--one man's voice speaking to the reader, one to one. With the assistance of readings by off-camera voices, he attempts to relay the private voices of such authors as James Agee, E.B. White, Henry David Thoreau, James Thurber and Emily Dickinson.

Professor Claeysens was selected to produce this series on WETA and other educational stations on the recommendation of the Office of Public Relations.

SELECTED CALENDAR EVENTS FOR THE WEEK

9 Monday

GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS PROGRAM - Faculty Conference Room, Library. 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m. (through Friday)

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS SOCIETY - Faculty Conference Room, Library, 8-10 p.m.

OPERA: AMAHL AND THE NIGHT VISITORS and THE MEDIUM - presented by the Opera Society of Washington, Lisner Aud., 8:00 p.m. (Also on Tuesday at 8:00 p.m. Ticket Info: 296-8660.

10 Tuesday

INTERNATIONAL TRADE PROGRAM - Faculty Conference Room, Library, 6- 8:30 p.m.

BASKETBALL GAME: GW vs. VMI - Fort Myer Gym, 8:30 p.m.

11 Wednesday

INTERFAITH FORUM - Topic: "The Mustard Seed Ministry." Speaker: Rev. Tom Murphy, Woodhull House, Rm. C, Noon.

MEETINGS OF THE ATHLETICS COMMITTEE OF THE UNIVERSITY SENATE - Rice Hall, Rm. 615-616, 3-5 p.m.

EXECUTIVE DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM - Faculty Conference Room, Library, 3:30-6:30 p.m.

URBAN AND REGIONAL PLANNING PROGRAM: Topic: "The Extending Horizons for the Urban Planners." Speaker: William Goodman, Professor of Urban Planning, University of Illinois. Faculty Conference Room, Library, 7:00 p.m.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETING - Faculty Conference Room, Library, 9:00 p.m.

12 Thursday

MEETING OF DELTA PI EPSILON - Monroe Hall, Rm. 102, 8-9:30 p.m.

BASKETBALL GAME: GW vs. Georgetown - McDonough Gym (at Georgetown University), 8:30 p.m.

13 Friday

DAY OF DIALOGUE: BEGINNING 9:00 a.m. in Lisner Auditorium.

CHILDREN'S THEATRE: "The Fooling of Malvolio"(subplot of Twelfth Night), presented by G.W. Drama Department, Lisner Aud., 1:00 p.m. (Saturday at 11:00 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.)

UNIVERSITY SENATE MEETING - Faculty Conference Room, Library. 2:10 p.m.

15 Sunday

MALI FOLK ENSEMBLE - Presented by the Embassy of Mali. Lisner Aud., 2:30 and 7:00 p.m. Tickets available through Talbert's Ticket Agency, 628-5575.

JURIED EXHIBITION IN DIMOCK GALLERY - Presented by the Washington Kiln Club, through December 20.

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

-- A weekly digest of significant information for administrative and academic officers. Published by the Office of Public Relations. Editor, Betsy Ott.

Monday, December 16, 1968

David M. Kennedy, Chairman of the Board, Continental Illinois National Bank, and a GW Alumnus, (AB '37, LLB '35), has been named Secretary of the Treasury by President-elect Richard M. Nixon. Mr. Kennedy served as Chairman of the President's Commission on Budget Concepts during the Johnson Administration. He is pictured in the GW admission booklet, "One Man Makes A Difference," produced by the Office of Public Relations. He is a GW Trustee.

Robert D. Murphy, a GW Law Alumnus (LLB '20, LLM '28, LLD '58), is serving as liaison in foreign policy between the Johnson and Nixon administrations. The former Ambassador to Japan, Mr. Murphy has served in many positions in the U.S. State Department, including Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs during the late fifties. He is Chairman of the Board of Corning Glass International.

The George Washington University Chorus, under the musical direction of Jule Zabawa, Studio Lecturer in Applied Music, will perform its first concert of the season on Tuesday, Dec. 17, at 8:30 p.m. in Lisner Auditorium. The concert, which traditionally opens the University's Holiday Season, will devote the entire program to a performance of the major seasonal portions of Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah." The concert which will also include the GW Orchestra, will be open to the public free of charge.

Beginning in the fall of 1969, only unmarried freshmen men and women under the age of 21 who are enrolled for 12 or more hours of academic work during the fall or spring semester or six or more hours during a summer session will be required to live in University residence halls or at home with their parents or guardians. Formerly, sophomore women had also been required to reside in university housing, but following an informal study of the impact of the regulation on the individual student, it was decided to drop the requirement for sophomore women.

The Chemistry Department has just received two instruments valued at $70,000 for use in research in the laboratories. A grant from the National Science Foundation enabled GW to purchase this equipment. The Perkin-elmer Mass Spectrometer will be used in the analysis of the atoms in a molecule. According to Frederick Minn, Professor of Chemistry, the machine is normally used in studying the natural products which arise on plant and animal material, and is also used in determining molecular weight. The Hitachi-Perkin-elmer Nuclear Magnetic Resonance Spectrometer is specifically designed to examine clinical environment of hydrogen, boron, phosphorous and florine. Both pieces of equipment are designed to conduct very detailed research work, and will be used by juniors, seniors, and graduate students.

BOOKS WORTH READING

THE AMERICAN UNIVERSITY: How It Runs, Where It Is Going, by Jacques Barzun, Harper & Row, Inc. 49 E. 42nd St., N.Y., N.Y. 10016, 139 pp., ($7.95), is dedicated to John Gardner and written for "the general reader who takes an interest in higher education." Both will likely be pleased, or at least stimulated, by the observant, articulate Barzun's explanation of what's been happening at the universities during the past 20 years and his 68 specific recommendations for coping with various situations. Barzun was dean of faculties and Provost at Columbia for 12 years--until mid-1967. His study and suggestions are based on his assumption "that the nation wants a university in the honorific and not in the service-station sense."

SELECTED CALENDAR EVENTS FOR THE WEEK

17 Tuesday

OPERA: AMAHL AND THE NIGHT VISITORS (Special Childs Matinee) - presented by the Opera Society of Washington, Lisner Aud., 1:30 p.m. Tickets - 296-8660 (Also Wednesday and Thursday at 1:30 p.m.).

INTERNATIONAL TRADE PROGRAM - Faculty Conference Room, Library, 6-8 p.m.

GW ORCHESTRA AND CHORUS CHRISTMAS CONCERT - Lisner Aud., 8:30 p.m. FREE

BASKETBALL: GW vs. Maryland - College Park, 8:30 p.m.

18 Wednesday

INTERFAITH FORUM - Topic: "Extra Sensory Perception and Psychic Phenomena." Speaker: Dr. F. Regis Riesenman, Woodhull House, Noon.

20 Friday

GWU Chamber Choir - recital. Arts Club on I Street, 8 p.m.

24 Tuesday

NUTCRACKER BALLET - National Ballet; 2:00 p.m.

25 Wednesday - 4:00 p.m.

26 Thursday - 2:00 p.m. & 7:00 p.m.

27 Friday - 2:00 p.m. & 7:00 p.m.

28 Saturday - 11:00 a.m. & 3:00 p.m.

29 Sunday - 1:00 p.m. & 5:00 p.m.

30 Monday - 2:00 p.m. only

31 Tuesday - 2:00 p.m. only

January 1 (Wednesday) - 2:00 p.m.

Ticket Information - DU 7-5544